Ageing in the Digital Age

I use the Internet and help others to do so

Friday 16th November 2012a

Corinthia San Gorg

St.Julians

I use the Internet and help others to do so

176 million Europeans can access mobile internet wherever they go according to the Vice President of the European Commission responsible for the Digital Agenda

I use the Internet and help others to do so

Today I can communicate verbally and visually via the internet, replicating this to a more professional orientated structure

Research online

Search engines are reliable source of quick information. Back in time I had to collect newspaper cuttings for reference.

Internet Banking

The long queues and waste of time at the bank have become a thing of the past

Online Shopping

Social Networking

Who could have possibly imagined that someone would create a space where we could communicate, share photos and keep up-to-date with our friends from all over the globe

Reducing Bills through VoIP

Emails

Nowadays at the flick of the fingers the sixteen page newsletter goes all over the world and feedback arrives within seconds free from any postage costs

E government Services

Until a few years ago the interaction between citizens or businesses with government departments used to take place exclusively in Government offices.

Helping others to enter this exciting world

A team that its aim is to get more people online and build the skills of those who are online.

Helping others to enter this exciting world

© Original Artist
Reproduction rights obtainable from www.CartoonStock.com

I CAN BE UPGRADED. CAN YOU?

BACALL

search ID: aba0952

We realise that limited knowledge and lack of confidence may be the main obstacles to the wide spread use of modern technology especially with the 55+

Helping others to enter this exciting world

One elderly lady gained huge satisfaction receiving emails which included power point presentations of old views of Malta, views of other countries, religious sites and many more

Nursing Homes

Nursing homes are amongst those who should try to provide the support and improve computer internet access for the elderly to help them transition into the online world

I use the Internet and help others to do so

Thank you

Marie Demicoli
Ageing in the Digital Age
Opportunities and challenges of an ageing population
16th November 2012 Conrinthia San Gorg